SUMMARY

Born and raised in Queens, New York, I'm an enthusiastic award-winning bilingual filmmaker with a passion for bringing stories to life that have been seen all over the world. My experience ranges from working as a colorist on multiple televised productions to having my own short film, "Pluto", picked up by PBS to be distributed throughout their network. In addition to currently residing in Colorado Springs and being appointed as the Media Production Director at Wake Up, I'm also the Co-founder of both the 72-Hour Kick-Ass Film Festival & Maxxed Out Films. With such an impressive list of accomplishments, I strive daily to bring amazing stories that excite and inspire not only those near me but those around the world.
